PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN]

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26—Daniel W. Gelett commenced action in the Twelfth District Court to-day against the Keystone Consolidated Mining Company. Gelett alleges that in March 1874 he purchased from the State of California the east half of the thirty sixth section of the public lands lying in Amador county. On the same day the Company ousted him therefrom. The Company during the last two years took out $250,000 in gold. He demands possession of the land and $500,000 damages.

John B. Buchler a well known music teacher of this city, shot himself through the head with a pistol to-day. He died in a short time. He had been much depressed in spirits recently, but no other cause is known for the act. He leaves a widow and three children.

Rev. Father Powers, pastor of St. Patrick's church who whipped Mrs. Bella Brown, and kicked and drove her out of the church was arrested this afternoon for assault and battery.

The great Black will case still grinds slowly along in the Probate Court.

The Reddington Quicksilver Mining Company has declared a dividend of $10 per share.

Samuel Short, chief engineer of the steamer Mikado was sent to the Stockton insane asylum to-day. He is very violent most of the time.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27—An investigation into the affairs of H. C. Bennett missing pension agent indicate that he is defaulter to a large amount. As the examination of his accounts is not yet concluded the exact amount of his defalcation is not known. His wife is still in this city but Bennett has never been heard from since he left Omaha.

If the weather is favorable Prof. Barbier will make a free ascension at Woodward's to-morrow in the Paris mail balloon "Lescours" carrying ten persons.

No news yet from the steamer China and as her delay is protracted public anxiety increases. It is generally believed that her machinery is disabled and that she is making way under sail. The Union Insurance Company has decided it will take all additional policies on her cargo at regular rates. The steamer Arizona may bring news of the China if she does not arrive before Sunday next.

An affray occurred last night at the corner of Third and Bryant streets in which a man named Sterling was stabbed severely by a man named Valentine. Wounds not dangerous. No arrest made yet.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28—The Methodist Sabbath School Union is in session again to-night at the church on Mission street. Subject for discussion—The fitness of Sabbath school teachers, their best helps, visitation of pupils at their homes.

Col. J. H. Nelson, Paymaster of the Arizona Department, arrived this evening on the steamer Pacific.

The steamer Mikado will not sail for Australia till the 31st.

The steamer Nevada sails for Panama to-morrow at noon.

The widow of E. A. Marchant has sued John Samuel, who shot and killed him a year ago, for damages in the sum of $50,000.

Mrs. Lensky living on the Potrero tried to kill herself by shooting herself through the head with a pistol. She still lives but is paralized by the effect of the shot.

The weather this evening is showery.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27—The report published in the morning papers that the Union Insurance Company were willing to write risks upon the cargo of the overdue steamer China, is without foundation. The non-arrival of the steamer is the town talk and all sorts of rumors are in circulation. Very little credence can be placed in any of them. It is known that she made terribly slow time going down to Panama and that fact inspires hope that she will yet turn up all right.

Interior California.

SHASTA, March 26—The rain, which commenced yesterday afternoon still continues, 1 20-100 inches having fallen so far, making a total of 51 40-100 for the season.

SAN JOSE, March 26—The graduating exercises of the State Normal School attracted an immense crowd this evening. Central Hall was filled to its utmost capacity. The class numbers 33. The programme consisted of music, orations and essays delivered by eight of the graduates, presenting of diplomas and address to graduates by the principal. The class-tree will be dedicated to-morrow with appropriate exercises.

SACRAMENTO, March 26—The first charge of arson against Fred. Elliott for having set fire to the Commercial Hotel on the 12th and the 26th inst. was dismissed this forenoon in the Police Court. He was afterwards examined on the second charge, which will probably be also dismissed. Donnalle the lessee of the hotel will then be tried.

The steamer Alvarado, while coming down the river, unshipped her rudder and ran into the bank yesterday, causing her to spring a leak. She was made fast at the Pioneer Mills, and to-day the damages were repaired.

The eastern train due at 11 [illegible] M. won't reach this city till about midnight.

GRASS VALLEY, March 27—Additional subscriptions to stock of narrow gauge received yesterday and to-day raised the amount taken here to $115,000. Stockholders meet in Nevada City to-morrow to organize. Enough money has been raised here and in Nevada City to insure the building of the road.

SACRAMENTO, March 27—The second charge of arson against Fred. Elliott for setting fire to the Commercial Hotel was to-day dismissed. The examination of the charge against Donnell was set for Tuesday next.

For two days the Sixth District Court has been occupied with the divorce suit of John Oschner against Mary Oschner. The wife had previously brought suit for divorce against her husband. To-day the Court denied the petition of Mary and granted John a divorce, awarding him all the property and the custody of the children.

Snowing at Summit and raining at Emigrant Gap.

WOODLAND, March 27—A man named Ed. Newland aged 18 hung himself to a tree on Main street, last night. He left this explanatory note: "Got tired of living. God bless me and my enemies. Friends I have none." He was a church member and good templar.

SALINAS CITY, March 27—A shooting affray took place here at 12 o'clock. The shot was fired near a saloon. The Sheriff started and found a man with a pistol in his hand and another man lying on the ground bleeding from a wound in the temple. The Sheriff arrested the man with the weapon and took him to the Court House. The wounded man was taken to a drugstore. The examination elicited the following: Lockwood, who was arrested was going toward his tent for the purpose of going home when a man who had formerly worked for him, assaulted him with a [illegible]. In the scuffle it was discharged. Lockwood then knocked him down with the pistol [illegible] which occasioned the wound.

After six hours hard towing only a quarter of a mile was accomplished and the Grappler failing [illegible] let go the line and returned to port for assistance. The sails of the unfortunate vessel were floating at her side. Her condition was the same as when seen by the California.

The gunboat Boxer accompanied by the tug Grappler last evening started for the scene of the wreck and will probably tow her into port in a day or two, failing that she will be blown up.

Farewell Susan—you have driven me to the grave, wrote John Larch, of Alabama, four years ago, and left the note on the river bank. He was arrested the other day in Cincinnati living with another woman.

LETTER FROM SCOTLAND

WHAT IS KNOWN [illegible] ABROAD AND [illegible] NOT KNOWN AND WHAT SHOULD BE KNOWN—[illegible] INTEREST [illegible] TION HAS BEEN [illegible]—[illegible] THE SUBJECT DISCUSSED.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

DUNDEE, Scotland, Feb. 28, 1874.

TO THE EDITOR [illegible]:

Yes, you are right, it is high time Oregonians were awaking from the damaging indifference of neglecting to forward information abroad as to their State's various interests. Daily I have letters from England, Wales, Ireland, Sweden and even New Zealand (British colonists) [illegible] information. But what can I do [illegible] unsupported? Individual effort is powerless, as [illegible] have truly said, to people a State. But [illegible] is not. Personally I can say I did not anticipate, when I first wrote my pamphlet that I would thereby entail a vast deal of labor and correspondence on myself else I should have paused ere I issued to the people of Great Britain 35,000 free copies of my little work. My time is not my own, otherwise I should not hesitate to throw my whole soul into the noble work of advancing Oregon's interests in Great Britain as I should so like to do. But there must be no parleying with the matter. I have got the thin end of the wedge driven in and awakened interest in this part of the world as to Oregon and your people must follow it up by united measures. Emigration is a State undertaking. Every person in Oregon should or ought to be interested therein and surely none can say it is not my business, but thine. All will be benefited, though some to a greater extent than others. Let me urge this subject. Cannot you all see that if unity is requisite anywhere it is on the subject of emigration? Every legitimate means should be taken truthfully to tell what Oregon is and her resources. Without unity how can you expect effective results in the advancement of your State's prosperity and commerce?

Oregonians would feel, I honestly assure you, perfectly ashamed if they saw some of the letters I daily receive, telling me that the writers never heard of Oregon, nor knew there was such a country till they read my pamphlet. Why is this? Simply because nothing is done unitedly. Preconcerted action is necessary. Look at the results of the Grangers movement all over the United States and can you say why they have secured so much even, already? Simply because the farmers united as one man and resolutely set their faces to cope with the difficulties that beset their path. Take the same lesson—hesitate no longer. Be practical, energetic and with determined will let your citizens as one man unite to people their State by disseminating information and otherwise. I am ashamed to own it but I must confess that one and all of the Scotchmen I know in Oregon say that Oregonians as a rule are a very slow going, indeed indolent people, compared to the Scotch. Listen to the words of one Scotch correspondent whom I sent to Oregon. Writing to me he says: "This is a grand, wonderfully rich and prolific country, unequaled I do believe (taking all things together) on the face of the globe for the many inducements it possesses for material wealth; but alas it has a people who seem to me to be utterly regardless of their children's future—apart from their own—and who seem to think the soil should spontaneously bring forth fruits without any labor or exertion on their part. If we had only 5,000 to 6,000 of our good Scotch farmers here I am bound to say they could in many places of the Willamette Valley annually turn out 60 to 70 bushels of wheat per acre where (would you believe it) only 20 bushels are now obtained."

If there is any truth in these statements I must say Oregon's prospects with all her preeminent resources are not bright unless her people be "up and doing," and turn a new leaf.

My labors last month have increased. From Wales a philanthropic gentleman writes me for 1,000 copies of the pamphlet for free distribution. Upon being told I had no funds to spend in printing it he of his own free will paid the printer for 1,000 copies, which he has just received, remarking that Welshmen should know there is a country open for them similar to their own. He had previously circulated 500 copies in Cardiganshire, and found such an interest taken in them that he wished more. He suggested that I get the pamphlet put into the Welsh language. From Christiania in Sweden I had another letter suggesting the printing in their native language. From New Zealand I have a letter telling me that a farmers meeting had been held at which 50 to 80 farmers had deputed one of their number to visit Oregon this spring and report as to its prospects for them. To that colony (New Zealand) I had sent out 100 copies. He [illegible] would suggest that your State authorities should get printed and circulated statistical information for free distribution in New Zealand. Its nearness to Oregon is a great inducement and I do know that for years many of the New Zealand colonists have been desirous of going to the North Pacific coast, which, in climate, is almost precisely similar to New Zealand. From Ireland one lady writes me yesterday that her husband, a sheep farmer in New Zealand, writes her to join him at San Francisco and proceed to Oregon, he having resolved to settle there through reading a copy of my little work. The London Times (the great thunderer) the other day paid Oregon a compliment with an article from its widely circulated columns in which while it stated that Oregon was scarcely known in Great Britain still believed it would yet far surpass California as a wheat growing country. Indeed the Times columns contained a far more inviting picture of Oregon as a field for agriculture than I ever painted one. I have also written various articles on Oregon to the Scotch press and got them circulated. I have also written to the London papers, none of whom (except the Times' own correspondent's article already referred to, with which I had nothing to do) thought my articles worthy of insertion on the ground that nobody knew anything about or were interested in Oregon. Mr. Henry Morgan of Coggswell Ranch, Lane county, is in London at present, and he and I have been unitedly pressing Oregon's advantages on capitalists and intending emigrants. Mr. M. [illegible] wrote every line article which appeared to-day in the [illegible] weekly [illegible] agricultural and landed gentleman's newspaper of some repute, with an immense circulation all over Great Britain.

I have also had four interviews within the last three weeks with the largest and most wealthy ship builder on the northeast coast of Scotland, who has built many ships and large ocean steamers, whose object was to ascertain [illegible] ship building [illegible]. His idea is that the labor question is your drawback, and were it possible, he said, to get over this difficulty he would not fear to erect ship building yards in Oregon or Washington Territory.

What [illegible] is that [illegible] of Oregon to enable me to supply the demands made upon me. Indeed were it not for your WEEKLY OREGONIAN which comes to me regularly as to work and contains such a vast deal of recent information I should be at a loss in answering the many inquiries put to me. I [illegible] before and I now repeat it, if your Legislature will not act cannot your people unite in sending me information. I do not ask any recompense for my labors. All I wish is that you truly represent to me what Oregon really is and send me whatever information you may possess. My services as suggested by your correspondent are offered gratuitously to the Executive of the State of Oregon as Commissioner on Immigration, but I certainly decline to act for or represent here any land, emigration or other company got up in Oregon to make money. I am willing to further the interests of the North Pacific Coast generally, but only as a State or national undertaking, whether official or private, provided it is for the benefit of the community in general both here and in Oregon. [illegible] Washington [illegible] I have to thank Hon. Edward Eldridge of Whatcom county for a vast deal of information which he has repeatedly sent me and which has been found very useful for the Territory's interests and has been well distributed by me.

A correspondent writing, under the 5th of January, suggests that samples of Oregon produce should be sent me. Nothing would be of more service or more telling. I remember last autumn of hanging up in this [illegible] half a dozen long [illegible] stalks of Oregon rye. For three months these stalks hung [illegible] in my room and were remarked upon and discussed by 50 to 60 or more different gentlemen who happened to call on me during that time, and was spoken of in this city thereafter. Samples of your wheat, flour, barley, rye, flax, oil, timber and other original productions of Oregon exhibited in this way would do good to your State.

OREGON FLAX.

A traveler passing through Oregon, at my request brought me a very rough sample of your flax. I got it prepared and exhibited at Dundee and Belfast, the seat of the Scotch and Irish linen trades. It was pronounced equal to the best European growth. Contrasted with New Zealand flax the latter can bear no comparison, the Oregon samples being of greater fineness and equally strong. The New Zealand flax prepared sells in London at £36 a ton and I was offered £40 to £45 a ton for the Oregon flax if up to the rough sample sent me. Here then is a successful undertaking which can at once and inexpensively be commenced. You import linen goods at a duty of 40 per cent and still you have the material at your very doors for almost nothing. Each year the flax industry is growing of less importance in Great Britain through the want of the flax itself at a cheap price. Dundee and Belfast could take ten times more flax than Oregon can produce, and if the New Zealand colonists can profitably ship it from thence to Great Britain a distance of 16,000 miles round the Horn at £30 per ton, how much more should your citizens be able to do so at £40 to £50 a ton. Having two years ago been asked by the Provincial Government at Canterbury, New Zealand, to introduce that colony's flax into Dundee I can speak with some authority on this point. Samples of your flax prepared should also be sent me. If your people have enterprise at all they should not hesitate upon erecting a small flax (linen) mill in Oregon which would be a certain success. Protected by a tariff of 40 per cent, with freights and charges equally 30 per cent more, it is impossible to doubt the success of such an undertaking.

BAGS.

These as you are aware are nearly all made in this city, the great manufactory for the world. Each year you are taking nearly a million more bags than the preceding year. Yet you suffer a tariff of 40 per cent which practically is paid by your farmers. For years to come it will be, I fear, quite impossible for your people to successfully establish jute mills in Oregon. Nor for years need you attempt to do so. Those who know nothing of this matter may think that such a mill can be worked successfully—not to compete however with Dundee. I speak disinterestedly when I say so. The immense machinery and labor combined in the making of bagging would be so costly in Oregon that I do not see how it is possible to succeed, the more especially keeping in view the fact Congress will in all probability each year reduce the duty on bags till it either comes to 15 per cent ad valorem or is repealed. Your farmers' granges should rather agitate for the entire reduction of the duties on bags which would be a saving of nearly five cents a bushel to the farmer on the article of wheat. The improvements in machinery which year by year are being made in the immense jute mills of this city, in order to reduce the cost of manufacture, are a guarantee that the competition between Dundee made bags and those on the Pacific coast will soon cease entirely in favor of the former.

SALMON TRADE.

By all means let your people increase this industry. Oregon salmon are to be obtained in London, Liverpool and elsewhere, but not, I am sorry to say, as Oregon brands. Unfortunately, Scotland gets the credit of Oregon's production here, the tins of Oregon salmon being after their arrival in this country labeled as "Best Scotch Salmon." Still the field here is unlimited, and is year by year increasing only like your wheat shipments. You must send your tins direct to England instead of through San Francisco, otherwise you will find that the middleman benefits more than yourselves. For the privilege of going through the Golden Gate of San Francisco your wheat shipments, or rather the Oregon farmers, pay a tribute or black mail of some 15 to 20 cents per cental to strangers. If this system continues what will you do when the price of wheat comes down in Liverpool, as it will in a few years? Look this difficulty in the face and set to remedy it before it is too late.

SHIPPING.

I find after all that shipping from Oregon to Europe will be scarce this year again. If the California crop turns out as is anticipated Oregonians may make up their minds for freights being 45s a ton at all events. I have done all I can to procure you shipping this year, but nevertheless I find shipowners averse to cross the bar. One wealthy shipowner offered to send a ship of eighteen hundred tons, but I advised him against doing so, as I said she was by far too large for the Columbia river unless for Astoria. Those ship owners to whom I have handed the WEEKLY OREGONIAN and the Weekly Astorian are amused at the hot discussion between you on the advantages of each port. While it cannot but be admitted that Astoria has greater depth of water than Portland, it is a matter of deep regret that [illegible] should be used by the [illegible] Shipowners, I speak from experience, [illegible] I know that they do believe that there are faults at both ports to prevent them chartering to either. [illegible] should have a little patience and remember the old Dutch proverb, "Better to move an inch an hour than not to move at all." Rome was not built in a day, no more will Astoria, especially as she depreciates Portland, to whom, strictly speaking, she is and ever will be subservient, or rather dependent [illegible] view. That Astoria will have the [illegible] no one doubts, but [illegible] some time yet [illegible] other town [illegible] agitate and educate her people and disseminate abroad information as to her capabilities. But she certainly should not meddle with [illegible] people's affairs. I have no interest in either place and hence I speak disinterestedly. It would and ever will be a fatal mistake for rival newspapers, all having the State's interests at heart, to continually [illegible] each other's local advantages as to damage the State's interest generally in the eyes of foreigners.

The Oregon Shipping Company of this city which was successively promoted by me, will commence their operations this year with six ships. The owners can extend the company year by year should the trade require it, as they are all wealthy capitalists. This is a permanent Shipping Company for Oregon and as it gives great advantages in making advances [illegible] shipments to farmers [illegible] it should receive every encouragement from Portland shippers, for which port its ships are specially adapted. There is a vessel building at present within twenty miles of Dundee, which I am glad to inform you was christened the Oregon three days ago, which will leave here for Portland about May next on her maiden trip. This shows you what we are doing in this quarter to advance the interests of Oregon. I will write you again in three or four weeks.

I am yours faithfully,

WILLIAM REID.

One day last week a young son of Mr. Starr of Lafayette who was with a number of other boys climbing a tree fell some thirty feet. Fortunately no bones were broken.

OREGON

The Albany hoodlums have a new game—they stretch wires across the sidewalk and trip up the [illegible].

Mr. D. C. Stewart has been nominated by the Independents of Yamhill as a candidate for County Judge vice A. B. Henry declined.

Elder J. M. Stephens has resigned his position as Eminent Commander of the K. T. C. of Albany and J. H. Raymond elected to fill the vacancy.

John McKean attempted to break jail at Lafayette on Tuesday last. He succeeded in breaking the lock to the feed door but he was too large to get through the hole. He got out that way once but has grown since.

The Enterprise learns by private letter from Corvallis that J. C. Avery has purchased the interest of the Benton Democrat, and will take charge of its editorial management. He proposes to support the Independent ticket.

A letter from Dallas says: Town awful dull. Farmers all busy sowing wheat. Odd Fellows preparing for a grand ball on the 27th April. The hall to be 60 by 100 feet. The river is getting very low and boats therefore very irregular.

The women of Albany have secured over 400 signatures to a petition to the Mayor and Common Council asking the repeal of the liquor law of the city and will besiege the next meeting of the Council armed with this formidable argument in favor of temperance.

Mr. Dan Clark informs the Statesman that the child which was lately supposed to be ill with the smallpox near Salem is entirely well and shows no mark or scar. The child suffered very little and there is reason to doubt if it was really afflicted with that loathsome disease.

A Missionary Convocation of the Episcopal Church is being held at Oregon City. On Sunday morning the Rite of Confirmation will be administered. The clergy in attendance at these services are the Rev. J. H. Babcock of Salem, the Rev. George Burton, of Portland, the Rev. A. L. Nichol[illegible], of Vancouver, and the Rev. J. R. W. Sellwood, of Milwaukie.

In Clackamas county 25 persons and firms pay over $1,000 taxes for the year 1873, an average of $255 to each. The four largest individual tax payers are D. P. Thompson, Geo. LaRoque, Thos. Charman and D. C. Latourette, who pay about $1,190 combined; the largest tax is paid by the O. & C. R. R. Co., $5[illegible]. Seven pay over $200 each and 5 pay from $100 upwards.

The Albany Democrat says the first boat on the Santiam Canal is already launched and navigating its trackless track up and down the canal. It is named "Granger No. 1," Jason Wheeler captain, with one horse steam power on the tow path and a blacksnake whip for a safety valve. The boat has a carrying capacity of about five tons, and with a full application of the "blacksnake" will make six miles an hour.

Charles Hogan, a barber from Dallas, went over to Independence a few days ago and while drunk used some vulgar expressions in a drug store in the presence of a lady. The proprietor, Mr. Whittall, ordered him to leave the store, but refusing to do so he was taken by the arm and led out. As soon as they reached the sidewalk Hogan drew a revolver and fired three shots at Whittall, but fortunately missed him. Before a warrant was got he left in a buggy for Dallas.

The following is the address on a letter received at the Oregon City postoffice: "Mrs. Doctor ——, This lady's maiden name was Ellen Hamilton, born in Lincastle, Virginia, is about 60 to 63 years old, moved from Missouri to Oregon. Postmaster will confer a favor by showing this letter to all Doctors so that she may get it. Also another Mr. Tumbon, to Oregon City. This is a inquiren letter for my connextion. pleas Post master take hit out & reed hit if tha is no tumbon thar gave hit to eny body of that name."

A young daughter of Rev. I. D. Driver of Salem aged about 14 years, met with a very painful accident a day or two ago while playing with gunpowder. It seems that a fire had been built for some purpose out of doors and she was amusing herself by pouring a small quantity into her hand and touching it off to see it flash. She finally undertook to pour a stream of powder from the copper flask containing it into the fire, when it ignited and exploded the flask, unjointing her thumb at the hand and blowing it entirely off with the exception of a small portion of the skin near the wrist.

H. A. Poppe who died in Clackamas county on the 24th of last month was a native of Saxony. When he was 20 years of age he was enrolled in the German army and served nine years in the artillery. In 1860 he came to this country and enlisted in the Federal army. He was in 21 battles, being wounded in the battle at Gettysburg, and he served in the army till the close of the war. He came to Oregon in October last year and had been sick much of the time since until he died. He leaves a wife and one child to mourn his death. The mourners are well worthy of the sympathy of the community and of the nation, for the sake of which he impaired and risked his life to serve.

The Statesman says: "Cattle owners in this valley are disposing of them at very low rates in instances where the extent of plow land does not leave them sufficient pasturage. We learn that the Bakers who live below Eugene have bought over two hundred head of cows this winter at prices ranging from $6.75 per head to $10 per head. These are a good average lot of cows. The farmers in that vicinity have been plowing up so much land for wheat that they have a lack of pasturage and so sell their cows for what they can get. It must be confessed that stock raising is at a lower ebb in this valley than heretofore, but it can hardly get lower than to have cows sold at prices above named."

NEWS AND GOSSIP

Governor Fenner, on entering himself from church on fast day, was told by Dr. Wayland that he had not obeyed his own proclamation. "Yes, I do," he replied. "I tell the people to meet at their usual places of worship. Mine is at home."

A young [illegible] in the Western States sent to the local paper a love poem beginning, "Revel I begg the madgic spell." The editor answered that if he liked to call at the office he should have the run of the dictionary for a few hours.

There is an old story that St. Peter, when everything on earth was [illegible], and the multitudinous changes on every hand [illegible] to have a ride through most of Europe [illegible] on entering Spain he dismissed him, "for here," said the [illegible], "is everything just as I left it."

Wife, what has become of the grapes? "I suppose, my dear, the hens picked them off," was the bland reply. "Hens—hens—two legged hens, I guess," said the husband with some emphasis, to which she tenderly replied, "My dear, did you ever see any of the kind?"

The observations of a married man have led to the conclusion that money put into mirrors is a good investment, as they afford a marvelous amount of comfort and gratification to a woman. He says his wife thinks just as much of consulting her glass when she ties on her apron as when she tries on her bonnet, and while [illegible] there is a rap she exclaims, "Mercy! Joseph, who is that?" and dashes for the looking glass.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: "Shall we burn or bury, is one of the revolutionary questions now agitating the public. For our part we are not in favor of going back on the old plan. It was good enough for our fathers and will suit us as well. The fact is we expect to die some time and prefer to be laid away in the shady recesses of a sepulcher, with the screws in the casket loose, and in case of reanimation to be able to kick the lid off, rather than to be thrown into the furnace of a locomotive and have no chance of escaping through the smoke stack."

THE TERRITORIES

Snow fell to the depth of four feet at Salt Lake City, and miners' hunts have deferred their spring opening until the [illegible] spring to open with.

At Alta, Utah, H. B. Kizer, recently from Trinidad [illegible], fell down a mining shaft March 18th, striking the machine and a horrid shapeless mass.

Petty larcenies from dwellings seem to be the rage among the thieves at Olympia lately. The residences of Mr. Percival and Capt. Lawson were both visited last Wednesday night.

Mr. T. B. Morris has completed the survey of the S. & W. W. Railroad line east of the mountains and has only about twenty miles between Seattle and Snoqualmie Pass to survey before he submits his estimate of the cost of construction to the company.

Sheriff Smith, of Cowlitz county, is suing the Kalama Beacon for libel, modestly appraising the damage done his character at $20,000. The suit has grown out of some rather severe strictures on his official conduct, relating, we believe, to the Bullong express robbery, county finances and other local matters. So says the Tacoma paper.

The Temperance people of Olympia have nominated a full ticket to be voted for at the municipal election, which is to take place on the 6th, as follows: For Mayor—Marshal Blum; for Councilmen, 1st Ward—C. H. Hale, S. W. Percival; 2d Ward—B. F. Yantis, L. P. Venen; 3d Ward—J. S. Dobbins, S. D. Ruddell; for Justice of the Peace—G. I. Boynton, J. N. Gale.

A private letter from Malad City, Oneida county, Idaho says: The snow is fully eighteen inches deep and weather cold. Hay scarce, some few cattle dying, and many very weak. If this weather continues fifteen days more many cattle will perish, as there will be little or no hay left. At Marsh valley, thirteen miles north, some few cattle have been drowned. No snow there.

Casting the prophetic orb far into the dimness of futurity, the Tacoma Tribune discourseth thus: "A beautiful piece of ground, high and commanding, 1,500 feet long and 900 feet wide, charmingly situated near the center of the new townsite, cleared of timber, called Capital Park, has been set aside for future public use. It will become Territorial or State property as soon as Tacoma becomes the Territorial or State Capital, and on it will be erected magnificent buildings worthy of the great commonwealth Washington is destined to become."

The Tribune says: "Two corps of surveyors are working up and staking off the townsite of Tacoma according to the new plan, one party under Capt. Isaac W. Smith and the other under Mr. H. I. Chapman. Capt. P. G. Eastwick is in the Engineer's office, drawing up the plat. The front blocks will be 580 feet long and 120 feet deep, having each 24 lots 25 by 120 feet and 2 lots 40 by 120. The back blocks will be 300 by 120 feet, having each 12 lots 25 by 120 feet. The blocks run back to alleys or narrow streets of 40 feet in width. All other streets are 80 feet wide, and all avenues 100. The names of streets are not yet decided upon."

SATURDAY MORNING MARCH 21 1874

UNLESS FOR ASTORIA

Our correspondent at Dundee Scotland whose letter appears this morning mentions the fact that the owner of an 1,800 tons vessel was willing to send her to Oregon, but was discouraged from doing so by learning that she was entirely too large for the Oregon trade "unless for Astoria." Vessels of that size can not come to Portland with assurance of getting safely out with a cargo But they can come to Astoria at any time Indeed there is no class of vessels in the merchant service that can not enter the mouth of the Columbia the difficulties being all between Portland and Tongue Point, which is three miles above Astoria But these vessels can come to Portland and take in part of their cargoes and then drop down the river to Astoria to complete it, or—what would be still better for the State and for the ship-owner—they could, if organized effort were put forth for that purpose by those interested in Astoria, be loaded there without proceeding up the river at all Something of this sort will in all probability, have to be done sooner or later for it is not to be supposed that the entire shipping of Oregon will always be carried on in small vessels For long voyages it costs less, proportionally to carry in large ships than in small ones and there is no doubt the carrying trade, like every other, will finally be brought under the influence of competition, to force the question of how to transport the greatest amount of freight for a given price At present the business of this country is not sufficient to force this question upon the parties interested, but it will come sometime, and while the number of small vessels will increase with the augmentation of our commerce the necessity for large vessels for certain kinds of trade will be recognized Then the problem will take a new form. The contest will then be! The mouth of the Columbia or the Straits of Fuca? The bar at the mouth of the river is a mere bugbear There is plenty of water and good anchorage No intelligent person pretends that it is as good as the entrance to Puget Sound, but no one who understands the matter would deny that either place is as good as the entrance to many of the leading commercial ports of the world

DAVID LOGAN DEAD

It is with unfeigned sorrow that we announce the death of David Logan Esq, which occurred yesterday morning at his residence near McMinnville. We have not been able to learn the particulars of his death Our readers will recollect that we mentioned some time since the fact that he was seriously ill He was slowly sinking for some time, and his death was not unexpected. He was about forty-nine years old.

Few names have been more prominently connected with Oregon politics, or the history of the Oregon bar, than that of David Logan He came to this State in 1849 or 1850, and entered upon the practice of the law at Lafayette Though young he soon took rank among the foremost of his profession in the Territory, which he maintained till his retirement from practice three years ago. The possession of an accurate, analytical mind, enabled him to grasp the nicest distinctions in the law, and express them with such directness and perspicuity as never failed to command the attention of the court, but he excelled most as a jury lawyer It is no disparagement to any member of the profession to say that Logan never had a superior in the State in this respect He had an intuitive perception of what point in his case would prove strongest before the jury, and no one knew better than he how to make the most of that strong point He always appeared before the jury in the armor of Achilles

Logan had well-defined views and strong convictions on political questions, and possessed considerable political ambition, but he was not a skillful politician in the matter of managing men for his own ends. Three times he ran for Congress and each time was defeated When the Republican party had anything like a fair chance for success he was never nominated. When a forlorn hope was to be led he could come to the front, but he lacked that genius for pipe-laying which was necessary to enable him to command a nomination at the hands of his party when it was reasonably certain he could be elected

Logan had faults and who has not? But he had also qualities which all who knew him will remember with pleasure Let us forget his faults as we would wish to have ours forgotten when we are called hence let us preserve the memory of his virtues as we would wish those to do for us who have taken part with us in the brief little drama of life and who linger awhile after we shall have gone

Logan, rest in peace

Mr Garfield undertook to correct Mr Dawes' and Mr. Beck's figures on Government expenses the other day but when the gentlemen compared notes it appeared that Beck had made but one mistake—he had put the annual expenditure, exclusive of interest and sinking fund at $308 000 000 and Mr Garfield showed that the estimates already submitted foot up $332 000 000 In replying to Gen Garfield (Congressional Record March 10 Mr Beck alluding to Garfield's statement that there had been a regular reduction of expenditures during the past few years said that the figures given were deceptive [illegible] priations for interest on the debt and for the sinking fund the expense account stands as follows

1871	$1 [illegible]	$1 [illegible]
1872	1 [illegible] 371	[illegible]

These figures were afterwards endorsed by Mr Dawes In another part of his speech Mr Beck made a statement which is certainly worthy some attention It was to the effect that the Administration had expended the fund derived from the sales of Government property since the war [illegible] $ [illegible] Beck declared that this expenditure was in defiance of a law making it embezzlement for any official to pay out any money in excess of the amount appropriated by Congress for the specific purpose for which the disbursement is made He said that many prominent officials would be in the Penitentiary to-day if the law had been enforced Beck's speech was heard by a full house Gen Garfield is [illegible]

[illegible] has a great deal of medical and hygienic common sense and keeps up its [illegible] with great success The subjects it discusses may want somewhat of the attractiveness that pertains to the general magazine but they will not grow old [illegible] as the human family continue to suffer from new ailments every year

The [illegible] Journal of Phrenology and Physiognomy published by Samuel R Wells has reached [illegible] To those who believe in the Science of Craniology and its brother Physiognomy as means of reading character the annual visits of this publication have always been very welcome Mr Wells' publishing house is the fountain head of this sort of literature and of course his publications are to use a politician's phrase "the clean thing"

In a speech on the national finances the other day Representative Ellis H Roberts referred to a message from Secretary Richardson which recommended an increase of taxation to the extent of $42 000 000 Thereupon the Secretary wrote a letter requesting Mr Roberts to correct the statement and the latter gentleman made known to the House his willingness to make all proper corrections Mr Dawes sprang to his feet and asked Mr Roberts if Secretary Richardson had authorized him to state that he had not recommended the enactment of a new schedule of taxes prepared by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on which Mr Roberts' first allegation was based or that he is not now in favor of increased taxation Warming to his theme the father of the House (who by the way, is very touchy just now) said he had understood distinctly to recommend additional taxation and had tried faithfully to represent his opinions "If he had changed his mind and had chosen another organ to express his views he (Dawes) would like to know it Roberts replied that he had no such authority and said he had no reason to suppose the Secretary desired any other organ than the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means on whom the House and Massachusetts were so much in the habit of relying!" This quiet retort was enjoyed by members as an ironical allusion to Mr Dawes turning up in Boston when the Massachusetts delegation in Washington were searching high and low after him to defeat the Simmons appointment

We may as well mention that the Senate has vindicated Mr Zachariah Chandler, His colleague Mr Ferry as Chairman of the Committee on Rules has issued an order excluding A C Buell correspondent of the St Louis Republican from admission in the future to the reporters' gallery of the Senate Mr Buell's offense consisted in sending to the Detroit Free Press a dispatch stating that Senator Chandler recently appeared in the Senate Chamber in a state of beastly intoxication and was taken by Senator Sherman to the room of the Committee on Finances where he (Chandler) lay on a sofa until the effects of his debauch had passed away It is said that this is the first case in which a correspondent has been expelled from the gallery without a vote of the Senate We have already alluded to the fact that Senator Chandler has brought suit to recover $100 000 damages from the Detroit Free Press

If some inquisitive correspondent at Washington would inform the provinces just what the present Congress has accomplished in the line of beneficent legislation he would find plenty of readers Nothing has resulted from the financial debates the bankrupt law is still before a committee of conference and the prospect for the passage of McCrary's bill or any other measure for regulating inter-State [illegible] of railways is very dubious Judging from present appearances we would say the session will be occupied with investigations The Forty-third Congress will undoubtedly achieve in this direction quite as much as its predecessors accomplished Well the country can well afford to pay the few millions of Congressional expense if by that means it can find whether the hundreds of millions of Government revenue drift

The final settlement of the liquor traffic question is to be at the ballot box If the men after experimenting for a generation and a half to find out how to deal with it have had to throw up the sponge and let the women take the case in hand why do they not put all the weapons into the hands of those who are to do the fighting? In other words why not give woman the ballot so she can make secure by legal enactment the victory she expected to gain by moral and religious influence? If any logical reason can be assured why this should not be done a clear and definite statement of it would be in order at this time

The total amount of the bonded debt of the United States Government may be stated in round numbers at two and a quarter billions of dollars This sum is so great as to be incomprehensible, the mind failing to grasp the idea in adequate sense when hundreds of millions are to be considered [illegible] private bonded debt that is the bonds of individuals and [illegible] [illegible] dgious amount several [illegible] estimated by careful statisticians that the private bonded debt of the [illegible] is no less than [illegible]

If all the money spent for intoxicating beverages in the United States were placed in a common fund [illegible] debt it would take only about eighteen months to discharge every cent of the debt and the individual who [illegible] also be better off at the end of that time

Our [illegible] will be gratified [illegible] this morning's dispatches [illegible] paid in [illegible] the proceedings of the [illegible] meeting of citizens of Portland [illegible] the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railway [illegible] help

[illegible] the [illegible] in Washington [illegible] contestant for a seat in the Senate and a seat in the House has returned to [illegible] ed a newspaper [illegible]

UP THE WRONG TREE

CITY.

MEETING LAST EVENING.—The inclemency o the weather last evening did not prevent a very large attendance at the Taylor street M E Church Since the inauguration of the movement we have not observed a larger or more attentive audience than were present A deep interest at times almost reaching a pitch of enthusiasm pervaded the audience The meeting was continued until after 9 o clock and during the evening there was not visible the least indication of weariness on the part of any one present Short forcible addresses prayers interspersed with songs constituted the order of exercises There is not the least appearance of abatement in the public interest which these gatherings have awakened on the contrary if attendance can be regarded as an indication these nightly meetings are constantly augmenting in interest and enthusiasm A meeting will be held this evening at the same place To-morrow evening there will be a combined rally of the champions of the cause, when a very profitable occasion may be anticipated The public without distinction is invited to attend

AT ROME.—From a late exchange we learn that Joaquin Miller ye poet of ye Sierras is at present spending the winter in Rome and studying the habits of the people for some future book He is not satisfied however with a mere casual study but has gone to live among them. He says he shocked the aristocratic mind of the wife of one of the artists here by telling her she might direct her invitations to him to the Theater of Marcellus Everybody who knows Rome knows that this is the synonym for poverty and misery The ground floor of this old monument is divided into small arched recesses opening on the street, low black, dark and dirty, which are occupied by blacksmiths old iron mongers fruit sellers or butchers The poet occupies one of these and seems greatly satisfied with his apartment and his neighbors He expresses great confidence in their truthfulness and honesty and trusts himself with his diamond rings and conspicuous gold chain to their keeping without bolt or lock

HOW IS THIS?—Concerning a young attorney who formerly resided in Portland the Salt Lake Tribune of a late date has the following "Our esteemed townsman, George Venable Smith has a brother in San Francisco who has struck it rich recently Being of an inventive turn of mind he has produced a wonderful churn which will convert in a few minutes time a solid pound of butter out of a quart of milk For this butter lead he has been offered the snug sum of $250 000 by wealthy speculators in California, and for the right of Oregon the home of the Webfoot, he has refused $80 000 gold

ASTORIA TELEGRAPH LINE.—We learn that Dr Plummer, the Superintendent of the northern division of the Western Union Telegraph Company's affairs forwarded by the outgoing steamship, a detailed statement of the route via the north bank of the Columbia river to Astoria, and also that over the mountains via Forest Grove, together with a detailed statement of the offered aid by the citizens of Portland The report is made to Mr Gamble, the Superintendent in Chief and by the return steamer we expect to hear his decision in the matter

CITY TAXES.—The city tax roll was completed and placed in the hands of the Treasurer for collection on the 15th of the present month Thirty days are allowed by the law for the collection of the city taxes The same are now due and collectable, and all taxes remaining unpaid on the 15th of April will be returned to the Common Council, and the list be placed in the hands of the Chief of Police Mr Lewis would be most happy to fill out blank receipts for all who shall favor him with a call

PERSONAL.—Mr B Mayer, an old and well known citizen of Portland, took his departure on the steamer yesterday for San Francisco He is accompanied by his family, and expects to take up a permanent residence in California. Mr Mayer has been prominently connected with the Fire Department of Portland for some years, and tendered his resignation only a few days since as Second Assistant Engineer He carries with him the warmest wishes of a host of friends.

MR. WARREN'S CONDITION.—The Oregon City Enterprise, in speaking of Mr Chas Warren who is lying quite low with the smallpox, says At the time of going to press the condition of Mr Warren is quite favorable and there is every prospect of his early recovery No other case of smallpox has made its appearance, and as every precaution is being used to confine it where it originated there is hardly any probability of its spreading"

STEAMER SAILED.—The steamer Ajax sailed for San Francisco yesterday at 11 o clock A M She took the following passengers away Mrs Mary Sloan G S Heindale A Kestel F D Scharf, Miss Anne Stone J W Noyes J Harker A S Pease C N Garrel B L Stone Mrs D Douthitt, Miss J Lansin, E Coueton J Linn H E Goroutb B, Mayer and family W F & Co s messenger, and twelve in the steerage.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONCERT.—The children connected with the Unitarian Church will give a Sunday School Concert to morrow evening at 7 o clock, the subject being "Temperance" a cordial invitation is extended to parents and friends. The hour is appointed early so as to enable the pastor and church to participate later in the evening in the Union Temperance gathering at the Methodist Church

MONEY AT HAND.—We were led into error by an item in the columns of our evening contemporary in regard to the payment of the sums held against Mr J B Montgomery, which had been guaranteed by the Northern Pacific Railroad Co The arrangements have been made to settle these claims Some of them have been paid and we presume all will be in [illegible]

TRAFFIC FALLING OFF.—We are informed, on what is deemed reliable authority that since the inauguration of the present temperance movement in this city there has been a marked, decided falling off in the liquor traffic among some of the prominent dealers of Portland. We learn that in some instances the gross receipts of saloons have decreased nearly one half

A PRACTICAL TEST.—Multnomah Engine Co will drill this afternoon when Mr Joseph Buchtel will make a practical test of his new invention the telegraphic signal It is a novelty that should be seen to be appreciated The drill will take place at 1 30 P M in a prominent locality We shall give a full description of the invention and its workings in our next issue.

UNION PRAYER MEETING.—There will be a union temperance meeting at the Taylor street M E Church to morrow Sabbath evening Exercises will begin at 7 30 The various churches in the city are [illegible] their several pastors

THE SECOND ATTACK.—We regret to state that Col I P Moores is suffering [illegible] second attack of inflammatory rheumatism Though [illegible] severe [illegible] very painful

INVADING THE SALOONS

The fourth day of the crusade was begun quite early yesterday morning. As an evidence of the determination of the ladies to accomplish some good it would be well to note the fact that the forces have been increased—no less than thirty ladies having started out among whom was to be observed several young ladies A division was made and while one visited the northern end of the city others made a thorough canvass of the southern portion a consolidation being formed at times with a view to make a telling impression at some place [illegible] As upon previous occasions a number of men and boys followed in the wake of the determined women The time devoted to each saloon was necessarily brief as the work in hand involved an unusual amount of labor and much territory had to be traversed in the few hours allotted In some instances saloons heretofore visited were again called upon and the power of prayer once more tested Saloons [illegible] [illegible] in the crusade With [illegible] exceptions the ladies were treated courteously At the [illegible] the greatest trouble was experienced [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] greater weight [illegible] [illegible] So far the weather has favored the workers This will undoubtedly [illegible] with [illegible] doubt the number [illegible] [illegible] What the [illegible] accomplish [illegible]

THE [illegible] [illegible] suit of clothing that [illegible] to wear [illegible] for a man to the bed [illegible] [illegible] Only take a look through the stock to be convinced [illegible] the fact

The man is cruel to himself, who attempts to rally his exhausted energies with the ordinary commercial stimulants The reaction is fearful build up the strength and renew the vitality of the system with [illegible] never failed

FASHIONS OF THE PERIOD

SPRING [illegible]

Spring in winter is not unfrequently succeeded by winter in the spring, and it is not at all unlikely to prove so this season. At any rate notwithstanding the generally mild weather of February spring styles and spring business are a little slow in coming, though it is quite believed that the latter will make up for its tardiness when it does come by being unusually active

Spring colors are foreshadowed in gloves which the best authorities had prepared in pure Quaker grays and browns

A study of these colors in a dozen different degrees of each shade is a lesson for a life time and would prove a revelation to many who think they know all about color Commence with the silver gray remember we are talking about gloves and go through from the pure drab gray to blue gray iron gray which is almost black and bronze gray which is almost brown

Of all these the pure drab is the finest the rarest the choicest—one envies the Quaker ladies who have kept all the rarest shades of brown to themselves so long

Drab gray or Quaker gray is the most durable and economical of all colors in gloves It looks exactly the same by gaslight is delicate enough for evening or reception wear and can be used as a black glove afterwards

But do not confound gray with lavender Many do this and should you by chance ask our glove authority to match a lavender silk with a gray glove you would set his teeth on edge and so disturb his equilibrium that he would turn you over to one of his subordinates considering anybody good enough to wait upon a lady who did not know gray from lavender

Next to these pure grays come the wood and nut browns and these in all their varieties are to be the livery of the spring relieved with a dash of color or a gleam of white in the trimming of the bonnet or the square silk handkerchief which it is now the fashion to wear about the neck

The most elegant costumes complet will consist of two or more shades of these colors blended together in what may be called a minor symphony

DESIGNS

Fitted basques slashed jackets swallow tailed coats—these are what we have promised to us as the designs for spring outdoor wear to the confusion and extinction of the long enduring polonaise. But I do not believe myself that basques or jackets, or swallow tailed coats will be able to do away with the polonaise this year It is too useful too well adapted to every-day needs

Basques fancy jackets and coats with vests and lapels are pretty and jaunty and well enough in their way, but they are only suited to elaborately trained and trimmed toilets A basque over a short, plain skirt is very ungraceful A slashed jacket requires an effective arrangement of drapery beneath it and a swallow tailed coat either a man or a monkey to wear it

Take out the wearers of all these and there will still be a sufficiently large constituency left for the polonaise

SLEEVES

Sleeves are a most important feature of the spring styles. The newest the ugliest are puffed or trimmed with bands lengthwise upon the corner Extra sleeves in black or white net the puffings divided with bands of silk or velvet or jet embroidery, are now made to all the dresses of ceremony by fashionable modistes The Huguenot sleeve is coat shaped with an upright puff which added to the high cut upon the shoulder makes the arm seem inordinately long, the shoulder exceedingly short

A more becoming sleeve is Henry III which has been in vogue during the winter It has a second puff over the elbow

The Nilsson sleeve is made with inserted puffs of lace is only half long and finished with round single or double cuffs turned up over the arm

RUFFS AND COLLARS.

Ruffs of plaited lace white or black white dotted with black and all tipped upon the edge with jet are still highly approved for dinner and reception dresses but the new suits intended for street wear are finished at the throat with a standing collar sloped down in front but rising higher at the back where it is laid in a double box-pleat This is lined on the inside with a fine pleating of linen or lawn or a linen collar, cut round so as to stand out from the throat

While ruffs and standing collars are worn round (globular) ear rings will be in demand as they sweep the edge of a light transparent fabric without catching it

PORTLAND March 27 1874

EVENING SESSION

The Society was called to order at 8 P M, by the President Wm I Thompson.

Dr F O Smith presented an appliance for for taking articulation which was referred to a committee on mechanical dentistry who reported favorably thereon

Dr H Smith presented an improved dental plate which was also submitted to the same committee who were favorably impressed but desired further time before making a full report

There was an afternoon session of the Oregon State Dental Society yesterday the time being reserved for clinical operation by Dr Hatch in his rooms which was performed to the [illegible] all who witnessed it and was favorably commented upon by every one present

The remainder of the evening was devoted to the discussion of various subjects of interest to the profession

On motion of Dr Hatch a vote of thanks was tendered to the Trustees of the Odd Fellows Temple for the use of same during the Convention unanimously adopted

On motion of Dr Gray the Society then adjourned to meet at Albany on the first Wednesday in June 1875

TEMPERANCE PETITION

Among the champions of the Temperance cause in the State the following petition is being circulated and we learn very generally signed

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Oregon—The undersigned citizens of the State of Oregon believing that the liquor traffic the true parent of intemperance and its attendant evils is the prolific source of pauperism crime and human misery and that its continuance is detrimental to the best interests and welfare of the community and being satisfied that the time has come when something more than mere moral agencies should be applied to check these evils which all good people deplore we most respectfully petition your honorable body to repeal all laws licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors in the State of Oregon and in lieu thereof to enact such just and binding laws as will entirely prohibit such sale

ATURDAY MORNING MARCH 28, 1874

A COUNTRY SABBATH

Now soars the lark in Heaven's eyes
Through leafy crypt now steals the stream,
With shallow dimple sword blade gleam
And glimpses of divine surprise.

Heaven's golden arc in lair of blue
Were drooped above this weary world
Within her holy bosom furled
The sun has drunk the roses dew

The landscape all around is fair
But this remains the heart and gem
With stealing stream and grassy [illegible]
And sunlit park and sweet parterre

The vista fascinates my gaze
I linger in a blessed trance,
See in a dream the waters glance
And things that are the food of praise

In many an English cottage round
Japonica a glory glows
Her ruby colored sister blows
And purple pansies gem the ground

The first laburnum droops her curls
And mingles with the lilac's locks
O'er golden meadows browse the flocks
The orchard blossom types sweet girls

The sweetbrier sheds its heavenly breath
I pass the wallflower's rich perfume
And chestnut with its tint freaked plume
O world to banish dreams of death!

The scent of flower, the song of bird
The lace of leaf, the light of heaven,
Are vital with a mystic leaven
We have a soul for not a word

Unless it be—the breath of God
Which also breathes in yon church bell
It breaks on me with what a spell
Across the May-embroidered sod!

Earth clothed with Sabbath, thou art fair
Ye two upon each other act
The Sabbath sleeps the flowery tract
And finer seems to make the air

DEATH OR MARRIAGE

The ancient clock in Deacon Shermer's old fashioned kitchen was slowly chiming the hour of nine. It was no smart toy, no trifle of bronze or alabaster but a tall, square, solid relic of the last century, looking not unlike a coffin case set on end in the corner—a clock that had ticked through four generations and, judging from appearances, was quite likely to last through several more. Deacon Shermer cherished the old heir-loom with a sort of pride which he himself would scarcely have confessed to.

There was a great, ruddy fire of chestnut logs in the red brick-paved fire place, and the candles in the brightly polished brass sticks were winking merrily from the high wooden mantel, where they shared the post of honor with a curious sea shell and a couple of vases each containing a fresh osage orange from the hedge that skirted the clover field behind the barn. At the window a curtain of gaudy chintz shut out the tens of thousands of stars that were shining brightly on that frosty autumnal night, and on the cozy rug of parti colored rags a fat tortoise-shell cat purred away the slowly lapsing minutes. But the tortoise-shell cat was not the only inhabitant of the snug farm house kitchen.

"Timothy!" said Mary Shermer, decidedly, "if you don't behave yourself I'll—"

What she would do, Mary did not say; the sentence was terminated by a laugh that set the dimples round her mouth in motion just as a beam of June sunshine plays across a cluster of red ripe cherries.

Mary Shermer was just seventeen—a plump rosy girl, with jet-black hair, brushed back from a low forehead, and perfectly arched eyebrows that gave a bewitching expression of surprise to a pair of melting hazel eyes. She was rather dark, but the severest critic would not have found fault with the peach like bloom upon her cheeks and the dewy-red of her full, daintily-curved lips. Evidently Mr Timothy Marshall was quite satisfied with Mary's peculiar style of beauty.

"Come, Mary!" said Tim, moving his chair where he could best watch the flush of the fire-light upon her face, and picking up the thread of the conversation where he had dropped it when it became necessary for Mary to bid him behave himself"—"you might promise. It's nine o'clock, and your father will soon be home."

"Promise, what, Tim?" said Mary, demurely, fitting a square of red in her patchwork, and intently observing the effect.

"Nonsense, Mary! You know what very well. Promise to marry me before Christmas! I tell you what, Mary, it's all very well for you to keep putting a fellow off, but I can't stand it. What with your father's forbidding me the house, and that romantic Tom Stanley's coming here every Sunday night—"

Mary gave her jetty head a toss. "As if Mr Stanley's coming here made any difference in my feelings, Tim!"

"No, but, Mary, it is unpleasant, you know. I'm as good a man as Tom Stanley, if I don't own railroad shares and keep an account at the Hamilton Bill Bank, and I love you, Mary from the bottom of my heart! Now this matter lies between you and me only, no other person in the world has a right to interfere between us. Come—promise me!" He held both her hands in his, and looked earnestly into the liquid hazel eyes.

"Do you love me, Mary?"

"You know I love you, Tim."

"Then we may just as well—hush, what's that?"

There was a portentous sound of drawing bolts and rattling latches in the porch room beyond—a scraping of heavy boots along the floor. Mary rose to her feet, with a sudden scarlet suffusing brow and cheeks.

"Oh, Tim, it's father!"

"Suppose it is!"

"But he must not find you here, Tim! Hide yourself somewhere, do!"

"What nonsense, Mary!" said the young man, resolutely standing his ground. "I haven't come to steal his spoons. Why should I creep away like a detected burglar?"

"For my sake, Tim. Oh, Tim, if you ever loved me, do as I say. Not in that closet, it is close to his bedroom, nor through the window, it is nailed down tight. He's coming—he's coming. Here, Tim, quick!"

And in the drawing of a breath, she had pushed Timothy Marshall into the square pendulum case of the tall old clock and turned the key on him. It was not a pleasant place of refuge, inasmuch as his shoulders were squeezed on either side, and his head flattened against springs and wheels above, and the air was unpleasantly close, but Tim made the best of matters and shook with suppressed laughter in his solitary cell.

"Well, a jolly scrape to be in," thought Tim, "and not knowing when I'll be out of it. Mary's a shrewd little puss, however, and I can't do better than leave matters in her hands."

"So you haven't gone to bed yet, Mary?" said Deacon Shermer slowly unwinding the two yards of woollen scarf with which he generally encased his throat of an evening.

"Not yet, father," said Mary picking up her scattered bits of patch work with a glowing cheek. "Did you have a pleasant meeting?"

"Well, yes," quoth the Deacon reflectively sitting down before the fire, greatly to Mary's consternation—she had hoped he would have gone to bed at once, according to his usual custom—"it was tolbly pleasant. Elder Husker was there, and Elder Hopkins, and—well all the church folks pretty much. Why how red your cheeks are, Mary! Tired, ain't you? Well, you needn't sit up for me, my dear; it must be getting late."

The deacon glanced mechanically round at the clock. Mary felt the blood grow cold in her veins. "Twenty minutes past nine—why it must be later than that. Why, land of Canan! the old clock's stopped!" The old clock had stopped, nor was it wonderful under the circumstances. "I wound it up this mornin' I'm sartin'," said the deacon, very much disturbed. "It never sarved me such a trick afore, all the years it's stood there. Your Aunt June used to say it was a sign of a death or a marriage in the family before the year was out."

There was a suppressed sound like a chuckle behind the clock case as Deacon Shermer fumbled on the shelf for the clock key.

"These springs must be out of order somehow," said the deacon decisively. "How scared you look, child! There ain't no cause for bein' scared. I don't put no faith in your Aunt June's old time superstition. Where in the name of all possessed is that key? I could ha' declared I left it in the case."

"Isn't it on the shelf, father?" asked Mary guiltily, conscious that it was snugly reposing in the pocket of her checked gingham dress.

"No, nor 'taint in my pocket neither." And down went the deacon stiffly enough, on his knees to examine the floor, lest perchance the missing key might have fallen there.

"Well, I never knowed anything so strange in my life," said the deacon.

"It is strange," faltered the hypocritical Mary.

"I'll have a reg'lar search to-morrow," said Deacon Shermer. "It must be somewhere around."

"Yes it must," said Mary tremulously.

"Only," the deacon went on, slowly resuming his place before the fire, "I kind o' don't like to have the old clock stand still a single night. When I wake up, you know, it seems like it was a sort o' talking to me in the stillness." The deacon looked thoughtfully at the fiery back log. Mary fidgeted uneasily about the room, straightening tall, severe, sitting back chairs and thinking—oh if he only would go to bed!

As he [illegible] his [illegible] again [illegible] [illegible] some kindly [illegible] Mary's eyes [illegible] with [illegible] something like hope.

"Child," he said suddenly, straightening himself up in the stiff back chair, "you'd better go to bed. I'll sit up a while longer till the logs burn out."

"But father, I'm not sleepy."

"Go to bed, my child!" reiterated the deacon with [illegible] [illegible] authority that brooked no opposition, and Mary crept out of the room ready to cry with anxiety and mortification.

"If Tim will only keep quiet a little while longer," she thought, sitting on the stairs where the newly risen moon streamed in chilly splendor, "father sleeps soundly—and he is sure to go to sleep in his chair. I could just steal in and release him as quietly as possible." She sat there, her plump fingers interlaced, and her eyes fixed dreamily on the floor, while all the time her ears were strained to the utmost capacity to catch every sound in the kitchen beyond. Hark, was that the wail of the wind, or was it something? her literally nearer and dearer? Yes, she could not be mistaken now, it was actually a snore.

Mary rose softly to her feet with renewed hope. Surely now was the accepted time. Noiselessly as the floating shadow she crossed the hall, opened the kitchen door and stole across the creaking boards of the floor. The candles were burned out, but the shifting lustre of the firelight revealed her father nodding before the fire, with eyes closed and hands hanging at his sides.

"He is certainly asleep," thought Mary.

With a heart that beat quick and fast like the strokes of a miniature hammer she drew the key from her dress pocket, and proceeded in spite of the nervous trembling of her fingers to fit it into the lock. So absorbed was she in her task that she never noticed the sudden cessation of the heavy breathing—never saw the deacon start suddenly into wakefulness and look around him. Love is blind, and it is equally true that it is deaf. The deacon rose quietly up with a shrewd twinkle in his eyes and Mary gave a little, frightened shriek as a hand fell softly on her arm, possessing itself quietly of the key.

"Let me help you," said Deacon Shermer.

"Father, I—I found the key," faltered Mary, "and—"

"Found the key, eh?" returned the deacon. "Well that's lucky, and now we can find out what's the matter with the clock!"

Mary's heart, throbbing so wildly a moment or two ago, seemed to stand absolutely still as Deacon Shermer turned the key and opened the tall door of the clock case.

"Hal—lo!" ejaculated Deacon Shermer, as Mr Timothy Marshal tumbled laughingly into the room. "So you was the matter with the old clock, eh?"

"Yes sir," said Tim, composed. "I hope I haven't seriously interfered with the works of the clock."

"You've seriously interfered with me," said the deacon, waxing indignant. "What do you mean, sir, by hiding in my house like a thief?"

"Indeed! indeed, father," cried Mary, bursting into tears, "it wasn't his fault. He didn't want to hide, but I put him there."

"You did, eh? And may I ask what for?"

"Father," faltered Mary rather irrelevantly, "I love him and—he loves me!"

"Is that any reason why he should hide in the clock case, miss?"

"No—but—father! oh, father! I can never marry Mr Stanley. He is so soft and I—"

Mary's tears finished the sentence for her. The Deacon looked down (not unkindly) on her bowed head and the tender arm that supported it. Apparently the course of true love, roughly though it ran, was overwhelming all his own worldly-wise arrangements in its tide.

"And so you two young folks really think you love each other?" said the deacon meditatively.

"I love her with all my heart and soul, sir," said Tim Marshall, earnestly. "I'm not rich I know, but I can work for her."

"And I can work for myself, too, father," interposed Mary, with eyes that shone like softened stars.

"And you said yourself, sir," went on Tim, "that the stopping of the clock meant either a death or a marriage. Of course we don't want any deaths, so don't you think the most sensible thing we can do is to help on a marriage as soon as possible?"

The deacon laughed, in spite of himself. "It's late," he said. "Come around to-morrow morning and we'll talk about it. No, Mary, I'm not angry with you, child. I s'pose young folks will be young folks, and there's no use tryin' to stop them."

And as the deacon re-hung the pendulum and set the iron tongue of the old clock talking again, Tim Marshal paused on the front door step to whisper to Mary:

"What shall it be, Mary?—a death or a marriage?"

And she in turn whispered, "A marriage, I hope."

"My darling!" said Tim, "it's worth passing a lifetime behind the clock case to feel as I do now."

Manufacturing Statistics

In an [illegible] article on the future of the manufactures of the United States the New York [illegible] taking the period from 1860 to 1870 [illegible] the manufactures [illegible] as follows:

	1860	1870
No of establishments	[illegible]	[illegible]
Hands employed	[illegible]	[illegible]
Capital	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wages	[illegible]	[illegible]
Value of raw material	[illegible]	[illegible]
Value of product	[illegible]	[illegible]

—which shows that the extension of our manufactories has very largely exceeded the growth of population from 1860 to 1870, since while the gain in population has been only 22 per cent the increase in manufacturing capital has been over 100 per cent and in the value of goods produced [illegible] per cent, proving that it has been found a profitable employment of capital; and taking into consideration the unquestionable fact that during the three years following 1870 [illegible] prosperity has been much greater than for the ten years preceding, suggesting that new manufacturing enterprises ought to meet with favorable consideration at the hands of investors now that so many other sources of investment have been rendered for the time being uninviting and unavailable.

Miscellaneous

The total exports of produce from New York for the week ending Wednesday, March 11th amounted to $[illegible] mixed value, which is a decrease of $[illegible]. The exports for the corresponding period of last year were $[illegible]. The total exports from January 1st to date this year are $[illegible] against $[illegible] last year and $[illegible] in 1872.

We notice in our exchanges from the East that two loans have been recently contracted for railroads in the European market, one of $10,000,000 for the Baltimore & Ohio road and one of $[illegible] for the Lehigh Valley road. [illegible] turning confidence in Europe in our railroad securities.

The singular statement comes from New York that bonded warehouses are being closed because of a lack of business. The falling off in imports since the panic in September last is credited with the trouble that has befallen the bonded warehousemen. They have petitioned the Secretary of the Treasury that they be relieved of their obligations to the Government.

When Senator Sherman presented in Congress the other day an anti-greenback inflation remonstrance signed by seventy five leading wholesale merchants of Chicago, [illegible] that these seventy five names represented [illegible] millions of capital. Now this would represent an average of $80,000 of capital to each individual, which is probably ten times as much as the real average of the capital of the parties represented. So says the Chicago Tribune, which sympathizes with Mr Sherman.

All the lumber in the Minnesota market—about 110,000,000 feet—has been bought by a syndicate with a view to advance prices.

A rubber manufactory is talked of in Rochester. There are said to be but three now in operation in the United States.

The unusually large hog crop put up in Chicago the past season induces the belief that heavy shipments will be made to this coast and that weak prices here will be the rule next summer and fall.

The report of the Emigration Commission for February shows that 3,033 emigrants were landed at Castle Garden during the month. Of these 1,06[illegible] came from the German Empire; from England, Wales and the Isle of Man 577; Ireland 616; Italy 200; Scotland 154; Austrian Empire 94; Russia 82; France 85; Switzerland 59; Scandinavians 40; Holland 8; Belgium 8; Luxemburg [illegible]. Compared with the corresponding report for 1873 a decrease of 2,018 is shown. The reports of January and February 1873 compared with those of 1874 show a decrease of 7,186.

During the packing season extending from Nov 1, 1873 to March 1, 1874 Chicago pork packers put up 1,20[illegible] hogs of an average net weight of [illegible] pounds each. The increase was about [illegible] head over any former season.

Shipping Intelligence.

The bark Anti[illegible] has drawn up to [illegible] wharf where she is receiving grain for the United Kingdom. She will go down the river early next week.

The bark Wetterhorn, which left this port September 8th with a cargo of 21,718 centals wheat arrived at her destination March 2[illegible]th after an extremely long passage of 17[illegible] days.

The steamship Ajax sailed at 10 o'clock this morning with a full cargo of assorted produce for San Francisco.

The Mattie Macleay with produce for Honolulu and the bark Courdon with wheat for Europe have their cargoes nearly completed and will go down the river in a day or two.

The ship Eskdale which left this port November 30 with a cargo of [illegible] centals wheat and [illegible] barrels flour of the aggregate value of $[illegible] arrived at Liverpool March 20th.

A Rare Chance for a Good Physician.

AS MY HEALTH IS IN SUCH A CONDITION that I cannot endure the exposure and hard[ship] consequent upon country practice, I offer to sell my residence situated in Hillsboro, the County Seat of Washington County, Oregon, upon the most reasonable terms with a good practice thrown in, the extent of which may be ascertained by addressing the undersigned or examining his books personally.

The property [illegible] feet [illegible], enclosed with a picket fence and sidewalk in front, located on Main st, Hillsboro, 1 block from the Court House, with good dwelling house, office and barn; also a never failing well of water, blocked in and [illegible] fruit trees and vines growing thriftily. All of which I will sell for $1,000 in cash or one half cash and the remaining half on one year's credit with [illegible] per cent interest secured by mortgage. [illegible]

I will also sell a No 1 Saddle Horse with Saddle, Bridle and Saddlebags, together with [illegible] [illegible] at a greatly reduced price.

Hillsboro is situated in one of the most healthy farming localities in the State and has a population of about 600 inhabitants, and has a railroad running through the place. There is but one practising [physician] in the place [illegible] my self and [illegible] as much [illegible].

My object for selling is as above stated, and for the purpose of commencing city practice. Any [one] wishing a good country practice cannot find a better place, and will do well to call and see for himself or address me for any information. Address as above.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing he has returned from visiting the principal hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his [illegible] 623 Kearney street corner of [illegible] San Francisco where his [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] his services may [illegible]

The Doctor has spared no effort or time in seeking out new remedies and has increased his facilities for the alleviation of suffering.

Horrible Disease.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering [illegible] existence from the effects of secret [illegible] from virus absorbed into the system [illegible] pallid, emaciated and disfigured [illegible] broken down constitution, disqualifying [them for] the happiness of marriage or the enjoy[ment] [illegible]. In this horrid situation thousands [illegible] close the scene. Let parents, guardians [illegible] [illegible] who suffer [illegible] horrible [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] cured be on at [illegible] DR GIBBON a physician made private [illegible] study and who is certain to cure the most [illegible] without mercury. [illegible] important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends [illegible] careful of the many pretended doctors who all [illegible] [illegible] their skill [illegible] in a few days, imposing upon the public by the names of eminent physicians from other places. Be therefore careful and inquire or you may fall into the hands of charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of [illegible] This solitary vice or depraved sexual [illegible] practiced by the youth of both sexes [illegible] unlimited extent producing with [illegible] ty the following train of morbid [illegible] combatted by scientific medical [illegible] low countenance, dark spot under [illegible] the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the [rustling] of leaves and rattling of chariots [illegible] the loins, weakness of the limbs [illegible] blunted intellect, loss of confidence [illegible] approaching strangers, a dislike to form [new] acquaintances, disposition to shun [illegible] memory, hectic flushes, pimples and [illegible] tions about the face, furred tongue [illegible] coughs, consumption, night sweats [illegible] frequent insanity.
